

IPEC Exam – Exemption for those Participating in Form Setting

The IPEC grandfathering requirements state that all individuals who are becoming IPEC certified under the grandfathering provisions are required to take the IPEC certification examination. However, in order to maintain the structural integrity of the examination, the individuals who are participating in Form Setting for the Standard Setting, whether they be IPEC or ABVE, will be exempt from taking the certification examination. Those ABVE members who are not IPEC certified but are participating in this activity, will be precluded from pursuing the IPEC certification until a future version of the examination is released.
